The property is comprised of twenty mineral concessions, totaling 11,100.77 hectares or approximately 111 sq. kilometers.

Pinaya is located along the southeastern end of the "Andahuaylas-Yauri Belt," an emerging and highly prospective gold-copper-moly belt that stretches over 300km throughout Southern Peru. This belt is home to some of the richest metal deposits in Latin America including: Norsemont's Constancia project, Aruntani SAC's Rescatada project, and Xstarta's giant Las Bambas copper-gold project.

Last year, the Company announced an initial NI 43-101 compliant resource estimate for the Pinaya project

The estimate was based on data from 70 diamond drill holes and only included two (WPZ and GOSZ) of the five gold-copper zones known to exist on the property. As of mid-September, a total of 138 drill holes, for 36,600 metres of drilling, have now been completed at Pinaya with drilling ongoing on the key zones of the property.
